TO THE PUBLIC AND TO OUR PATRONS

From our timid debut in 1921 we are now in the full limelight of 1922, and we have come to say we will not weary the reader with a detail of our trials or our work, but will say that everything has been done in a thorough, systematic manner—sufficient to make this volume just what it was intended for—an unerring guide for those who follow the line of investigation the world over. "Fools only make no mistakes"—and as we don't belong in that class, mistakes may be found in our publication. But we will ask the critic "to not tell other people BUT TO TELL US, and we will thank them for so doing.

Many detective agencies have merged; some have disbanded, and many changes have taken place—but we have endeavored to keep pace, and our lists are as accurate as the authenticity of the data submitted to us by those in position to know, would permit.

AS TO REPUTATION

We will say that to the best of our ability, the long list of individuals singly and collectively mentioned in this book are of the best—we will have nothing to do with one that isn't, if we know it—but at the same time we advise our patrons to use the same business acumen they would in any other line—make inquiries first. Human nature is varying all the time.

We have a word of thanks for those patrons who saw the possibilities of this book and helped by their efforts to bring it from the critical, experimental stage into what it now is, an indispensable adjunct to those whose duty is the suppression of vice.

Some have stood back; some have covertly sneered—but criticisms have been few. We say, however, it's your book—tell us what you want and we will try and make it to suit YOU.

We invite criticism and desire your early co-operation for all data, etc., that can be supplied to make the 1923 edition exactly what you would wish it to be.

INTERNATIONAL POLICE & DETECTIVE DIRECTORY

We are ardent advocates of co-operation and we direct the attention of our patrons to the ample list we have of detectives and finger-print and other experts listed in this book.

These are graduates from the best institutions of learning and are in every way worthy of your patronage and support, and as they have placed their name where you can see it give them a call. It is our idea to get people in touch.

are listed according to location and not alphabetically, as such an arrangement would necessitate a costly index of 20 or more pages, which is quite an item in expense when the whole world, let alone the U. S. is considered.

Some people think we exaggerate when we say "around the world." But to these we will say that a fugitive who has committed murder in a little shack in the wilds of Arkansas, we will say, flees (it don't matter where) our agents will get him on some of our routes—Honolulu, Manila, Shanghai, Hongkong, Natal, Durban, London or Paris—it doesn't matter where—we are in touch with men who are willing to co-operate. Race and language are no barriers.

TO OUR CRITICS

You can facilitate matters pertaining to hearty co-operation by sending in any data on corrections or ideas on design immediately on receipt of this volume, while they are fresh in your mind. This is your book and we are trying to please you.

GENERAL EFFICIENCY CO.

To the profession everywhere, and to the general public, such as is interested in the subject of investigation, this volume is respectfully dedicated. If it proves an aid on the weary routes of the long trail, then its conception is amply verified.

F. A. COOKE

From the lone operator in some obscure country-roads crossing to the manager of some large secret service bureau, it is designed to afford a bond of unity, a harmonizing phase of co-operation, in its full entirety.

The work is as complete as the war-wrecked world would allow. We have approached the threshold of the lawless realm of human tribes as closely as possible in the search for data. In the issuance of this Directory for 1922 our ardent wish for the success of one and all goes with it.

GENERAL EFFICIENCY COMPANY,
F. A. Cooke, President.

BUREAU OF CONSULTATION

The young detective, just starting out, is in a quandary. He knows he has studied the game thoroughly, but he gets the mistaken idea that the College, or some Agency, should give him a job immediately—and he runs into snags, and hinders what might be a promising career, because he doesn't know who to appeal to for advice, and whom he can implicitly trust. This is a time "when a feller needs a friend."

He has been "stung" and ridiculed, and his rosy dreams have been shattered, until life looks like a dreary waste.

We receive letters from these young "Hawks" daily, and we never fail to point out where the difficulty is and start them right, as many of our operators today can testify.

Many Agencies and Private Detectives could be kept off the rocks by a little sound advice, at the proper juncture—so we have decided in the future to open a Bureau of Information for those who need or feel the aid of one, whether it be those who have the yearning, which almost every human has at some time or another, to become a detective, a student, a graduate, or even a professional—who might desire consultation, or possibly an agency that is about to go under—when possibly some sound advice might alter their prospects entirely.

A few letters don't amount to much, as a matter of fact, but the amount we receive daily forces us to charge at least $1.00 per letter for such services, where details are gone into, and a personal letter has to be written to fit each case.

Remember, all inquiries are held strictly confidential.

SECRET SERVICE

Many hundreds of letters received by us from every quarter of the compass, written by every varying degree of known detective extant, convinces us still of the want of some book bearing on this interesting subject. There is still something wanting—and we are going to try and fill that want in the coming volume of

It is written by plain matter-of-fact detectives who are not "has-beens," but who are in the game every minute, and the reader can judge for himself or herself of the value thereof. To the student who is fired with the wonderful results obtained by our own home-made government secret service men, way in the dim and distant background, before the advent of Burns and the Pinkertons, but who starts out with a woefully deficient knowledge of "how to go about it"—for these this book is especially adapted. On the other hand, it is to be presumed that for "the wise guy who always was" and knows it all, the material in this book would be of no more than passing interest.

We will not weary the reader with "Abstruse Deductions of Criminologic Sylogisms" or "Craniological Anthropologists" or "Psychopathology" or other kindred alienist specialties, but on the other hand we will advise five-eighths of the average run of detectives to patronize some well founded school of penmanship and spelling—for they need it to begin with.

In addition we will take up the hunt in its natural order. Train the sleuth hound how to hunt; show him what his quarry looks like and how to follow it to the end of the trail, and the most approved forms of trailing and stalking en route. Also, we take all those interested into the laboratory, as it were, where from a few jars of simple essences are evolved the wonderful, magical compounds by which an unsophisticated, uneducated individual is NOT made into a well matured detective after a few applications—over night. But in other words, we show that he who runs may read, or he may read while running. Anyhow, he can get some help in his chosen profession.

We are not tied down by what has been, or what someone else may do, but are handling the subject in our own particular way.

SECRET SERVICE will be replete at every turn with something to hold the reader and the subject will be placed in such a light as to attract his attention sufficiently long to stamp the main issue indelibly upon his mind.

THE INTERNATIONAL SECRET SERVICE ASSOCIATION

TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC THE WORLD OVER AND TO OUR RANK AND FILE WHEREVER FOUND—

Greetings for 1922

Next to a good lover, the world at large loves a good secret agent—that suave, polished gentleman who arrives in the nick of time to make things bad for the ugly villain—and popular opinion puts him in a niche, with other heroes, where he justly belongs.

We wish to state that we staunchly uphold these traditions—that we are the barricade which strives to preserve our society immune from the minions of evil who would seek its disintegration.

OUR FORCES INCLUDE 67 INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

Covering All the Principal Points on the American Continent, and Ramifies Around the World.

It represents and protects millions of invested capital, employs thousands of qualified men and women investigators, has a central office for the rapid dissemination of information and business. It has a governing board composed of men of world-wide experience, with the most acute perception and scintillating array of faculties that it is possible to obtain, to devise ways and means to keep our organization up to its high standard of efficiency, so that you can approach any member of the I. S. S. A. in full confidence that you will secure the best talent possible on earth, and at the lowest reasonable cost.

We solicit business from large associations, such as Bankers, Insurance Companies, Railroads and Steamship Lines. You can order an investigation in any office of a member of the I. S. S. A., and in a few minutes your work will be under way in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Canada, or anywhere in the known world.

OFFICERS OF THE I. S. S. A.

RESOLUTION

Committee on Science and Practice of Finger Prints

WHEREAS, the past growth and present progress of the science of finger-print identification indicate that, within the next few years, there will be an enormous increase in the scope and social usefulness of the science, not only as the best means of social protection through the detection of crime, but as an accessory to modern business; and

WHEREAS, within a sort period, governmental and industrial bureaus will be required to handle millions of prints, where now only thousands are classified, filed and searched, and with the same ease, accuracy and swiftness as at present; and

WHEREAS, there are certain prints which are subject to argument, discussion and difference of personal opinion, and which are not treated alike by all bureaus, as there is no general authority which is recognized by the whole finger print profession; and as this leads to difference of classification, resulting in confusion in the interchange of prints and formulas; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the International Association for Identification, assembled in its Seventh Annual Convention, at Washington, District of Columbia, this twenty-first day of September, in the year of Our Lord, 1921, hereby go on record as favoring the appointment of a standing committee of nationally known finger print experts, to pass upon all matters in regard to the practise and theory of finger prints and to decide authoritatively on the classification of doubtful prints, such decisions to be the accepted guide for all members of the finger print profession; and be it further

RESOLVED, that this committee be representative of the whole field of finger print identification, criminal, governmental, commercial and individual, and that it contain in its personnel members of all organizations concerned with finger print identification; and be it further

RESOLVED, That this committee be empowered to add to its number any suitable person, providing that this addition to the committee be approved by vote of the majority of said committee; and be it further

RESOLVED, that this committee shall meet during this Convention, if possible, to decide on certain doubtful prints presented by the Secretary, and such other matters as may demand their decision; and that, through correspondence with the Secretary of this Committee and with each other, they shall act in the future as a final board on all questions concerning the science and practise of finger prints that may come before them; and be it further

RESOLVED, that, in case of a difference of opinion among the members of the committee, the matters in question be resubmitted to them, accompanied by the comment and criticism of the various members of the committee; and that, after this second survey, a decision of the majority of the whole committee be considered as final; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the Secretary-Treasurer of the International Association for Identification is hereby authorized to have photographic cuts made of such prints as are of the greatest interest to finger print workers, and to have such photographs and the decisions of the committee incorporated in the Annual Report of the Association, and otherwise given publicity.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF POLICEWOMEN

- President..... Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle
(Director, Woman's Bureau), Metropolitan Police Dept., Washington, D. C.
- Vice President..... Miss Annas Sonnedecker
(Policewoman, Police Department), Kalamazoo, Michigan
- Secretary..... Miss Clara Burnside
(Supervisor of Woman's Bureau, Police Department), Indianapolis, Indiana
- Treasurer..... Miss Nellie McElroy
(Policewoman, Police Department), Rochester, N. Y.

The Association is in such a formative state and there are so many new Policewomen being appointed constantly in various cities all over the country that any list of members at present would be incomplete.

The ambition of the Association is to establish aims, methods and policies, and uniform record keeping of Police women all over the world.

The Association has its annual meeting as a section of the National Conference of Social Work.

It is expected that the 1923 International Police & Detective Directory will contain a complete list of Policewomen all over the world.

On March 22, 1919, when the Karolyi cabinet resigned and was succeeded by a Bolshevik cabinet under Bela Kun, there was much rioting and blood shed in Budapest and no material progress towards stability was made. Early in August Bela Kun was forced to flee the country and then the Roumanians, who had been fighting the Hungarian Bolsheviks, came in and took possession of Budapest. Though ordered by the peace council in Paris to leave Hungary, the Roumanians remained. A cabinet under Jules Peidl was in power a short time, when it was overthrown by Archduke Joseph, who established a new ministry. This lasted only about two weeks. In March, 1920, Admiral Nicholas von Horthy was elected Regent, with Dr. Alexander Simonyi Semadan as Prime Minister and Count Paul Telebi as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

PORTO RICO

San Juan, P. R.

The Police of Porto Rico is what might be called State Police. It is a whole body under one head, assisted by subaltern officers, for all the island. The supreme authority in respect to its direction is vested in the Governor of Porto Rico, but the force is under the immediate command of the Chief of Police.

The island consists of 75 municipalities, each of which has its independent local government, council, sanitary and charity departments, etc., but the judicial and police powers depend directly from the Insular Government.

The Police Department is maintained from the Insular Budget or general appropriations, and consists of the following personnel: Colonel and Chief of the Insular Police, 1 Adjutant, 1 Inspector and Chief of Information, 1 Chief of Detectives, 1 Secretary to the Chief, 1 Voucher Clerk, 1 Typewriter and Translator, 1 Assistant File Clerk, 1 Chauffeur and Mechanic, 1 Clerk, 68 District Chiefs, 14 Sergeants, 34 Corporals, 23 Detectives and 577 Patrolmen, or 729 men. There is also a body of three prominent persons, residents of the island, which form the Insular Police Commission. They discharge their duties without compensation.

The island has a population of little more than 1,300,000. As to police, it is divided into 75 districts, each being supplied with a District Chief or Sergeant and a number of patrolmen, the non-commissioned officers being the assistants of the chiefs, and when the local chief is absent assume the duties of the chief. District Chiefs report all business to Headquarters, San Juan, P. R., and receive most of the instructions from the Chief of Insular Police, to whom they are held responsible for affairs in their respective districts. These chiefs are of various ranks—first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth class, the highest being those of the first class. MOUNTED STATE POLICE FORCE

Like the Canadian Constabulary, many of our States have a State Police Force. There are at least twelve. West Virginia, New York, New Mexico, Michigan, Texas, Tennessee and Nevada have State Police forces, similar to the Pennsylvania Constabulary.

Massachusetts, Connecticut, South Dakota and Idaho and Pennsylvania have such forces also.

The Canadian Mounted Police, organized in 1873, seems to have been the original model. From the rural constabulary of England, or the Australian Trooper Police, established in 1825, and the British South African Police, organized in 1897, may have come ideas, but the Pennsylvania State Police was modeled from the Canadian pattern and is the basis or model for all the other States that have adopted a State Constabulary.

Organized on a military basis, the Pennsylvania force is composed of about 415 officers and privates, subdivided into five troops, and assigned to posts in various parts of the State, and these troopers patrol the roads, and keep in touch with each other by telephone or other communications. Whenever possible, the State Police co-operates with local authorities in the suppression of crime. Its members also act as game, fire and fish and forest wardens, and have full police powers.

South Dakota uses her Sheriffs, Deputies and Special Agents for this purpose. Not more than three Special Agents may be employed at any one time by the State Sheriff, but additional Deputies may be appointed in emergencies.

The Massachusetts District Police, created in 1865, reorganized in 1879, is not so strong; only includes about one hundred and twenty-five men, appointed by the Government to help mounted State Police Force in preserving order, to assist local States Attorneys in preserving order, to report on fires, to enforce State laws on fishing, motor boat equipment, etc., to inspect moving picture houses, steam boilers, etc., and Connecticut has a force somewhat similar.

In Idaho all the state, county and municipal peace officers are included in the State Constabulary, and, in addition, State Policing may be appointed to enforce the law.

Usually from five to ten men are so employed.

The Texas rangers made an immortal name for themselves and any of our large cities finest mounted police is but a modern adaptation of those old, grizzled rangers, no matter where from.

REMEMBER THE WORDS W I T Z E R L A N D

Stands for the first nine Figures, a Cipher and a Dollar Mark

REMEMBER THE WORDS W I T Z E R L A N D

Stands for the First Eleven Letters of the Alphabet

Coding NUMBERS the word "YOU" is the code for "NUMBER" and must precede any coded number. If you desire to code the Number 743 it will be "YOURTI."

Before starting any Message that is to be spelled out by letter (CODE) the word "FOX" must precede and be added to the first word. The word "FOX" indicates that the message is to be coded by letters, but if the word "FOX" precedes-and-is-attached to any letters in the body of the message, it indicates that the one word alone is coded in the message. Each individual word coded must be preceded by the word (and attached) "FOX," unless the message is started by the word "FOX" preceding and attached to first word. Uncoded words in coded message must have the letter "J" attached to them at the end of the word.

The following message will be coded in two ways:

(Message) "Arrest and detain R. M. Getaway, now at Butler Hotel. Warrant here. Felony."

(Code letters): FOXSQZKP SXT TZKSAK QCCOCC RZKSGSC
(arrest) (and) (detain) (R. M.) (Getaway)

XMG SK WJKFZQ LMKEL GSQXSXK LZQZ EZFMXC
(now) (at) (Butler) (Hotel) (Warrant) (here) (Felony)

The same message could be written by using "general code" and coding names of party to be arrested and hotel name, as follows:

WIPE FOXQCCOCC FOXRZKSGSC Moor Butlerj.
(R.M.) (Getaway)

Look for the words "WIPE" and "MOOR" under code "Arrest." The word "Butler" is not coded. For any word not coded add the letter "J."

- 2 C's (CC) stand for Period.
- 2 B's (BB) stand for Comma.
